Countercurrents for a just world

Right Livelihood Award recipients reflect on our common future

Christopher Weeramantry, Sri Lanka

Christopher Weeramantry is a world-renowned legal scholar and a former Vice-President of the International Court of Justice, who has played a crucial role in strengthening and expanding the rule of international law. His work demonstrates how international law can be used to address current global challenges such as the continued threat of nuclear weapons, the protection of human rights and the protection of the environment.

Percy & Louise Schmeiser, Canada

With their fight against Monsanto's abusive marketing practices, Percy and Louise Schmeiser have given the world a wake-up call about the dangers to farmers and biodiversity everywhere from the growing dominance and market aggression of companies engaged in the genetic engineering of crops.

Moderator: Gustav Fridolin, Sweden journalist, former member of Parliament for the Green Party, presently reporter at TV4's programme 'Kalla Fakta'.

Organised by Dag Hammarskjöld Foundation and Uppsala Association of International Affairs (UF) in cooperation with Right Livelihood Award Foundation.

"The Right Livelihood Award

celebrates and supports people of vision. People who have ideas and apply them in concrete initiatives for the public good. They give hope for tomorrow, for a world in peace and balance.

They demonstrate how we can overcome oppression, war, poverty, the destruction of our environment, and a widespread sense of meaninglessness and fear."
